

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	p. 9
Introduction	» 11
1 Between Memories and Desire(s)
1.1 Postmodernism/Feminism: A Strange Attraction	» 15
1.2 The Other (Gender): Beyond Psychoanalysis?	» 28
1.3 The Flesh and the Word: From Plato to Corporeal Feminism	» 42
1.4 Desire, in Theory	» 66
1.5 Writing Desire	» 77
2 Angela Carter: A Terrorist of the Imagination
2.1 Woman Is Not Here: The Postmodern Nexus	» 89
2.2 Sade as Moral Pornographer	» 113
2.3 Another Measure of Desire	» 136
3 Heroes and Villains : Closing Time in the Gardens of the West
3.1 The Abject Law of the Same	» 145
3.2 Reversal of Gender Roles and Representational Crisis	» 162
3.3 End of Naming, End of Meaning	» 180
4 The Infernal Desire Machines of Dr. Hoffman : Or A Postmodern Oedipus
4.1 Aporias of Male First-Person Narrative	» 199
4.2 Desire to Desire: The Other as Fetish	» 213
4.3 Deferrals and Detours: The Oedipal Trajectory Debunked	» 241

5	The Passion of New Eve: The Ambiguous Allure of Androgyny
5.1	The Mind/Body Split: Deconstructing First-Person Narrative	p. 261
5.2	Womanliness as Masquerade: The Paradoxes of Androgyny	» 276
5.3	Crossing Borders/Crossing Genders	» 294
6	Towards a Postmodern Erotics of Writing
6.1	The Uncomfortable Pleasure of Angela Carter's Texts	» 313
6.2	Symbolic Transgression(s)	» 323
6.3	The "Desiring Machine" Breakdown	» 331
6.4	Towards a Postmodern Erotics of Writing, or "Pornology" Revisited	» 344
	Conclusion	» 353
	Select bibliography	» 355